

AIDN Lunch Briefing with
Paul C Johnson, MBE
Chief Executive Officer
Lockheed Martin Australia Pty Ltd
Defence Industry Business Briefing

Paul graduated with a Diploma in Aeronautical Engineering from the Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology in 1972 and with a Master of Science in Aircraft Design from Cranfield Institute of Technology (UK) in 1974. He was an Engineering Officer in the Royal Australian Navy from 1963 until 1985, during which time he held numerous Aeronautical Engineering positions including senior engineer of the RAN's Flight Trials Unit and of the Navy's front line ASW squadron and Deputy Director of Naval Aircraft Engineering in Russell offices Canberra.

After 22 years in the Royal Australian Navy, in 1985, Paul joined General Electric (USA) as the Australian Manager of Business Development for the Aerospace Group of GE based in Canberra. In 1990, he was assigned as the ASEAN countries Regional Director for Business Development. In 1994, Paul was promoted to regional President for the newly formed GE Aerospace/Martin Marietta company and remained in this position following the merger of Lockheed with Martin Marietta in 1995 and the subsequent acquisition of LORAL. During his eight years in Singapore, Paul established, with Tenix, the joint venture company RLM, based in Melbourne. In 1998 Paul moved back to Australia as Chief Executive Officer of RLM Systems, employing over 900 staff in four locations in Australia. In May 2003, following RLM's successful delivery of the JORN program, Paul relocated to Canberra as Managing Director of Lockheed Martin Australia and has recently assumed the role of Chief Executive Officer of the newly restructured business in Australia.

He is a Chartered Engineer and was elected a Member of the Royal Aeronautical Society in 1977. He was awarded the MBE in 1980 in recognition of his contribution to the advancement of Naval Aircraft Engineering.
